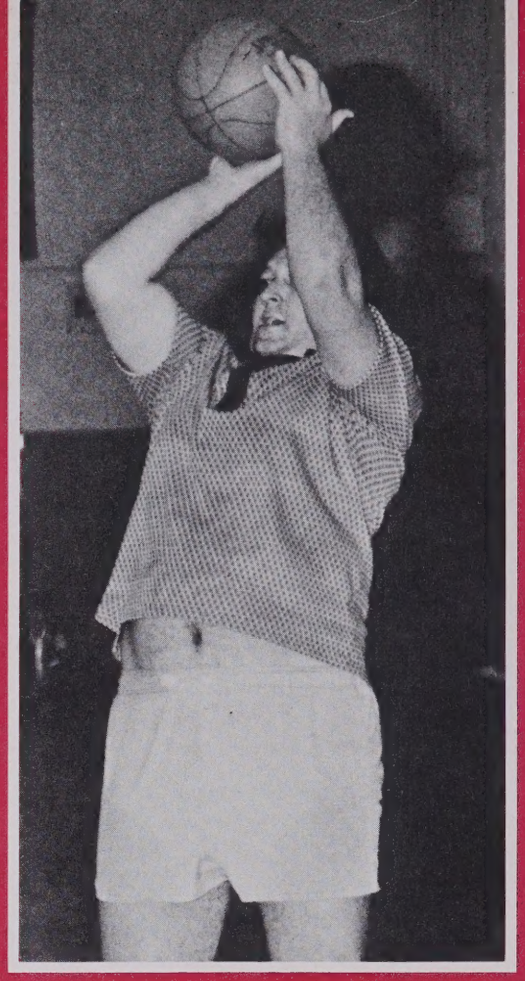
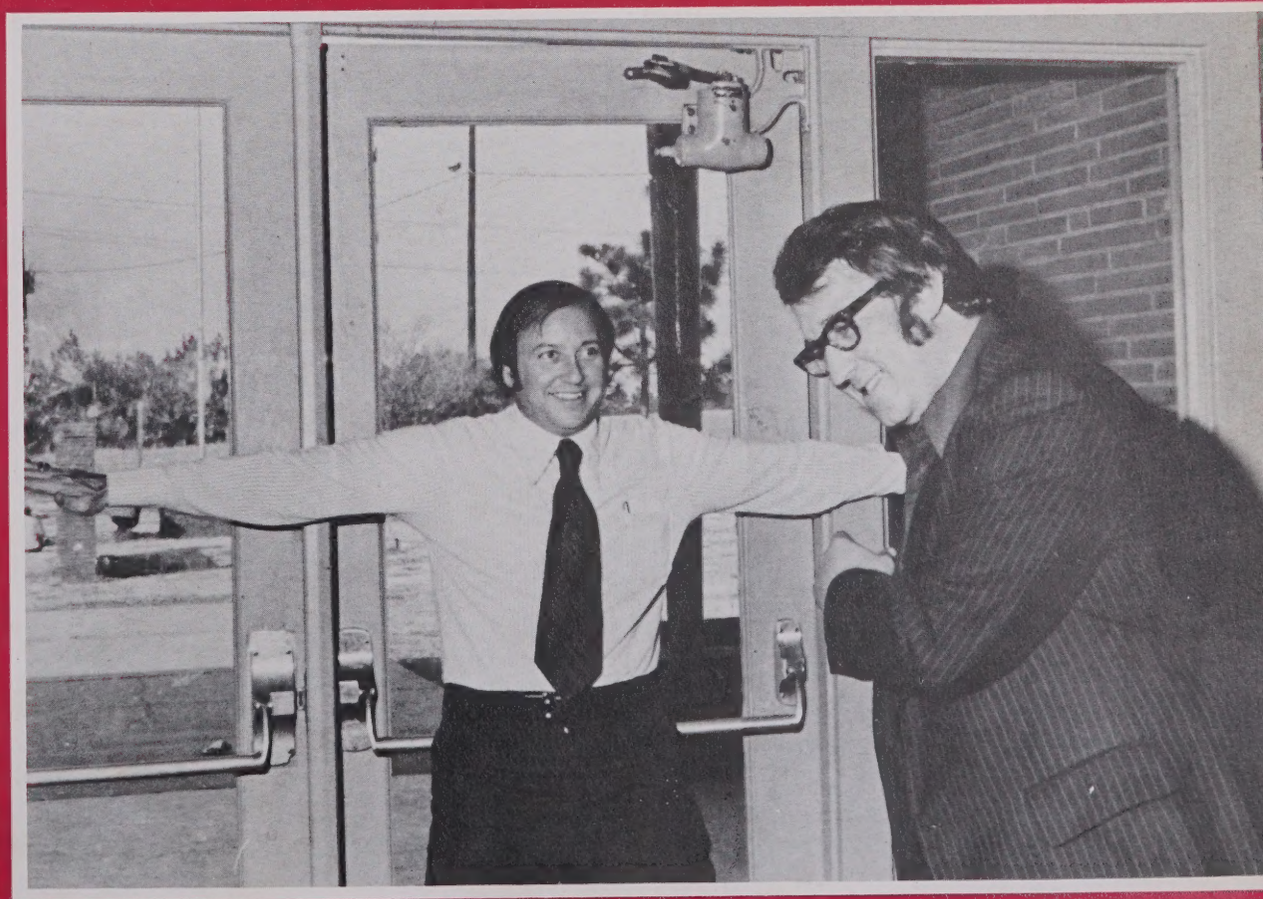
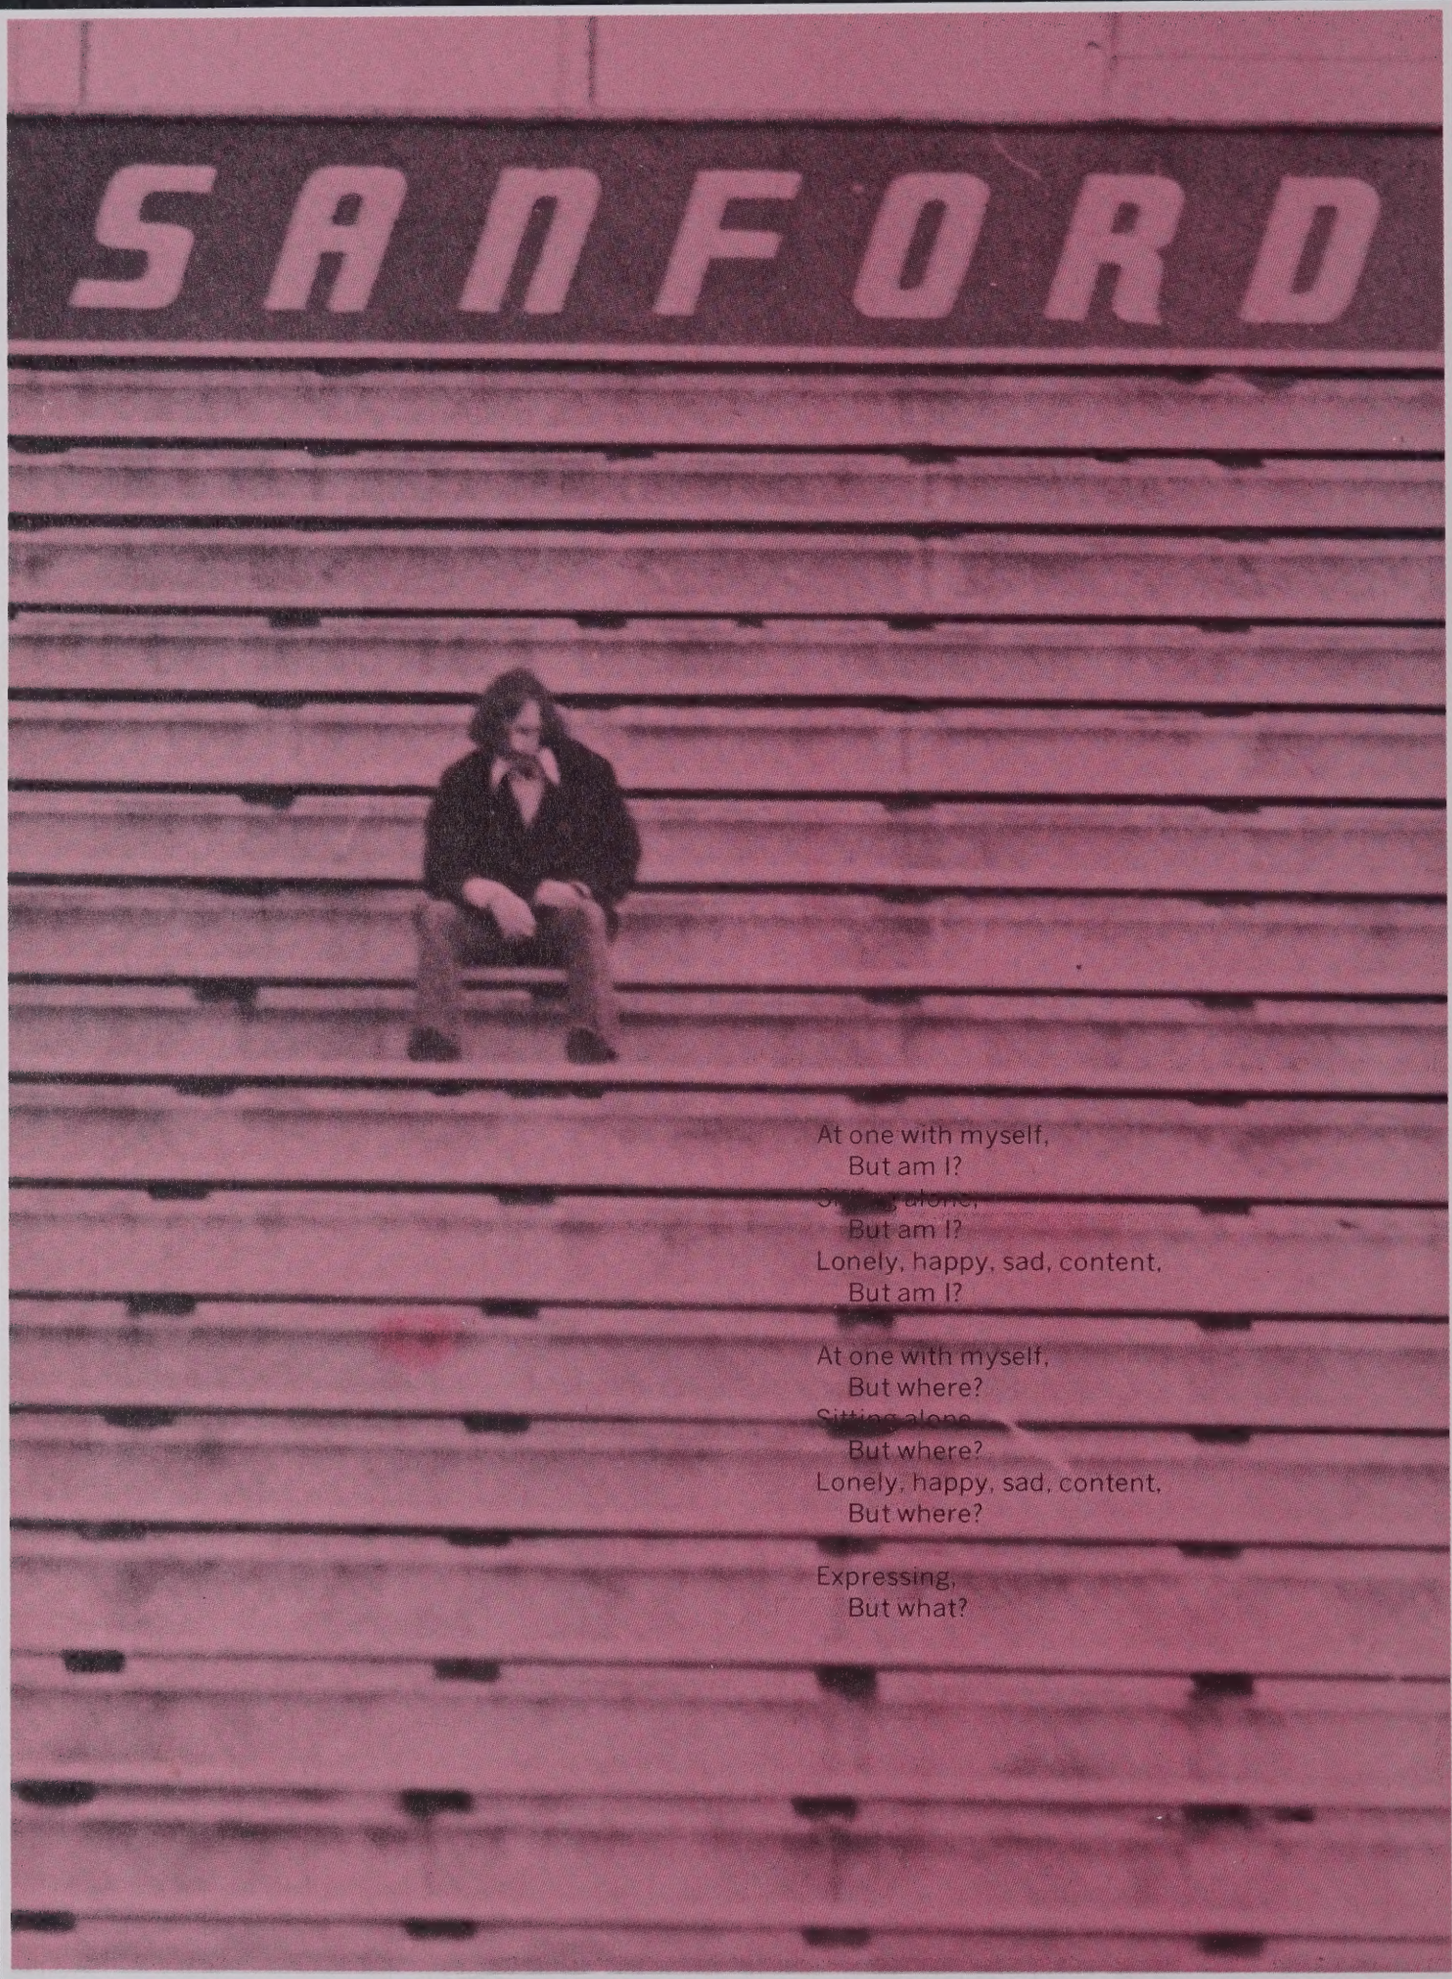
DEDICATION

The SANDPRINTS staff gratefully dedicates this yearbook to our past advisor, Mr. Samuel Leo Carter. Mr. Carter has influenced many students with his confidence in people, his love of life, and his power of leadership. In the few years he stayed at Central, he not only donated much of his time to planning experimental teaching techniques, but he also found time to help with many extracurricular activities. His willingness to advise clubs and attend athletic games was an inspiration to many people who felt the tug of apathy or boredom. He stood by the students as an advisor, counselor, and more importantly . . . a friend.

Top Right: The shocking display of Carter's naval excites the crowd into bawdy cheering as he goes up for a shot at the Student-Faculty game. Center: As the members of Central's several clubs mob the auditorium to get group shots made, Mr. Carter's soothing voice on the speaker system makes the instructions a little easier to take. Far Top Right: The appearance of "Sammy Claus" at Lee County Children's Center makes the Civinettes' Christmas party a success for the children. Below: Mr. Carter's smile is always comforting on hectic deadline days. Lower Right: Mr. Carter finds talking to a student a good way to relax. Far Lower Right: Principal George Seagraves tries by force to prevent Mr. Carter's leaving.



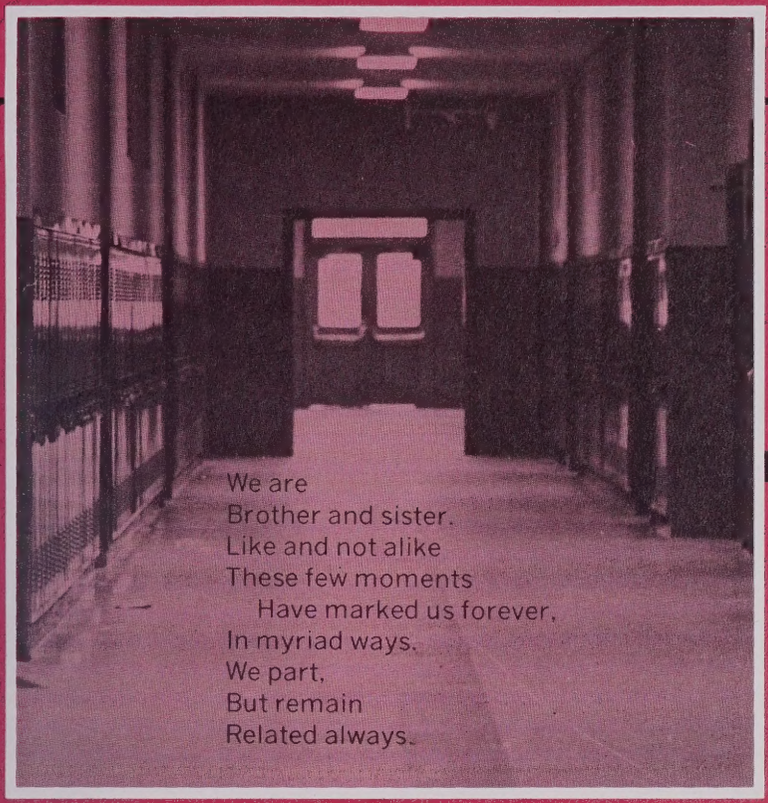




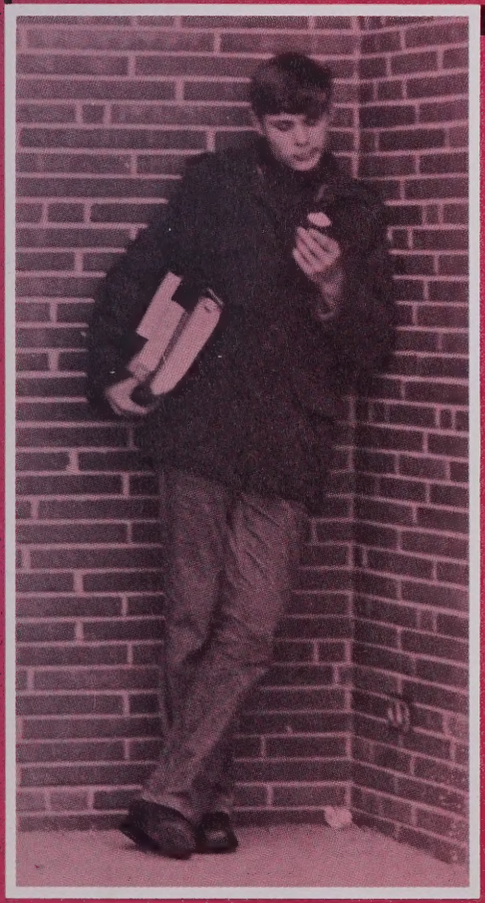
At one with myself,
But am I?
Sitting alone,
But am I?
Lonely, happy, sad, content,
But am I?

At one with myself,
But where?
Sitting alone,
But where?
Lonely, happy, sad, content,
But where?

Expressing,
But what?



We are
Brother and sister.
Like and not alike
These few moments
Have marked us forever,
In myriad ways.
We part,
But remain
Related always.



And he came
To his corner,
To wait.

She closed her eyes,
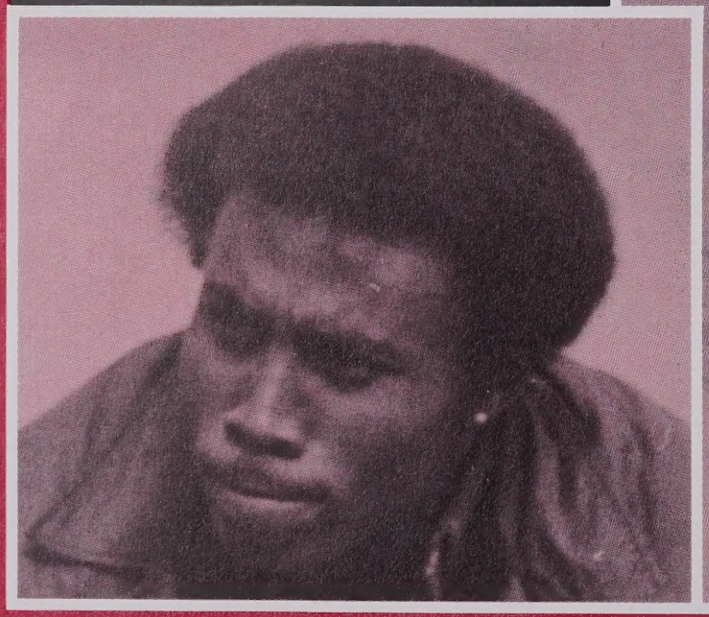
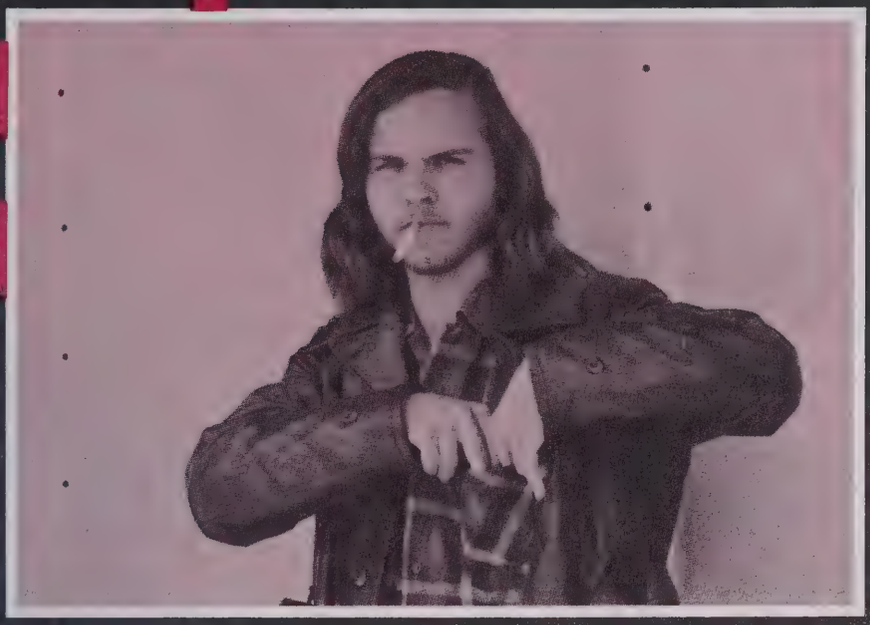
And she saw.





My life is bound
In chains of hate.
I'm living now . . .
But when will I die?

I came to search
They turned on me.
I'm glaring now . . .
But cannot see

The affectionate touch.
The embracing arms that pull together.
The coolness that can be so warm.
The eyes that dream.
The lips that speak with tenderness.

A life that is smooth
Like the outgoing tide
of the sound.
Gentle lappings that give ease . . .
If only for a while.

We walked through your puddle
one more time.
We came to you with our innocence.
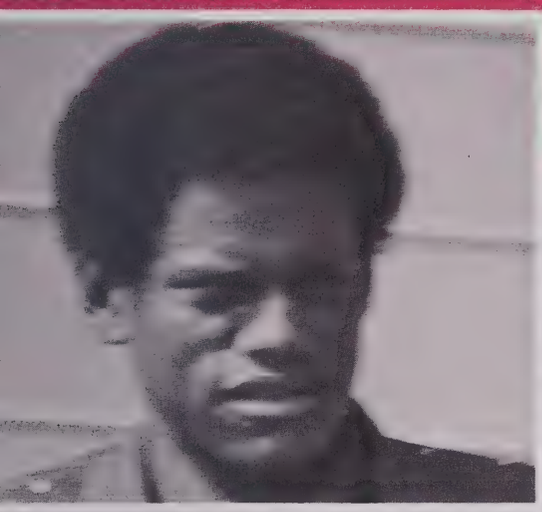
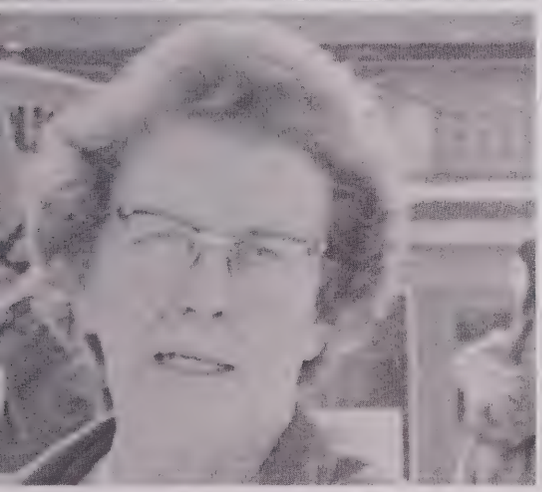
We saw your faces.

We leave our prints
on your walls,
your hearts,
your minds.

We Walked Through Your Puddle One More Time . . .





If living is the universal theme — actual living, as opposed to existing — then we must allow ourselves the freedom and the honesty to feel, to think, to come to a total understanding of life as a whole and of life as its individual parts. Throughout a day, doing routine things as well as doing not-so-routine things, we must find a way to reveal to others what we think and feel. These are our expressions: a smile of contentment, our favorite pair of blue jeans, a dance as crazy as our inhibited spirits will allow, a sudden exclamation upon understanding a mathematical concept, the banners we wave before the world and, by their absence, those banners we choose not to wave.

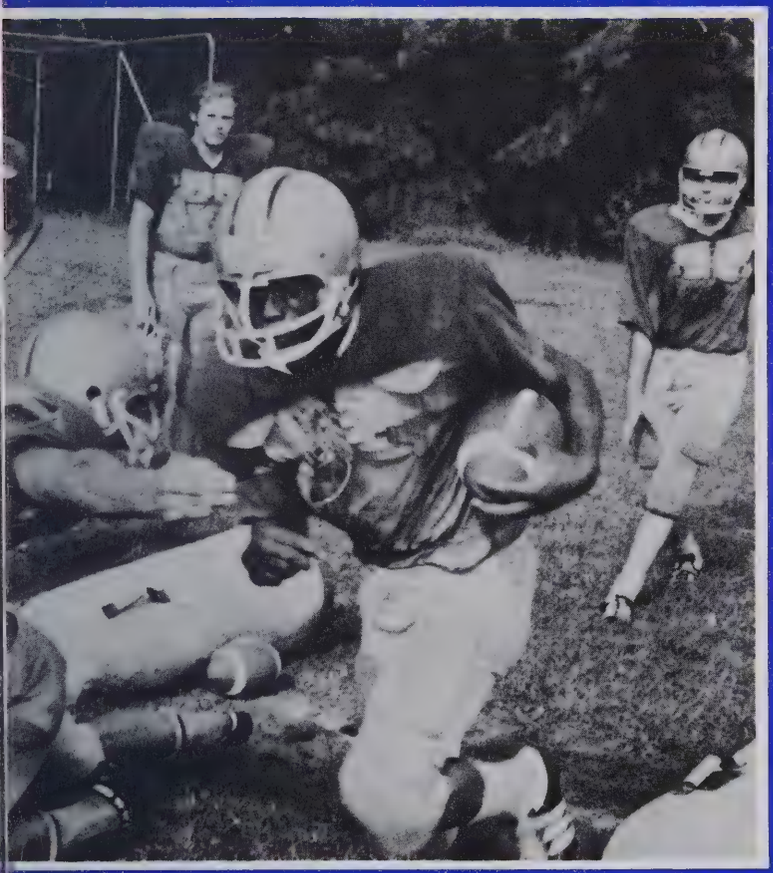
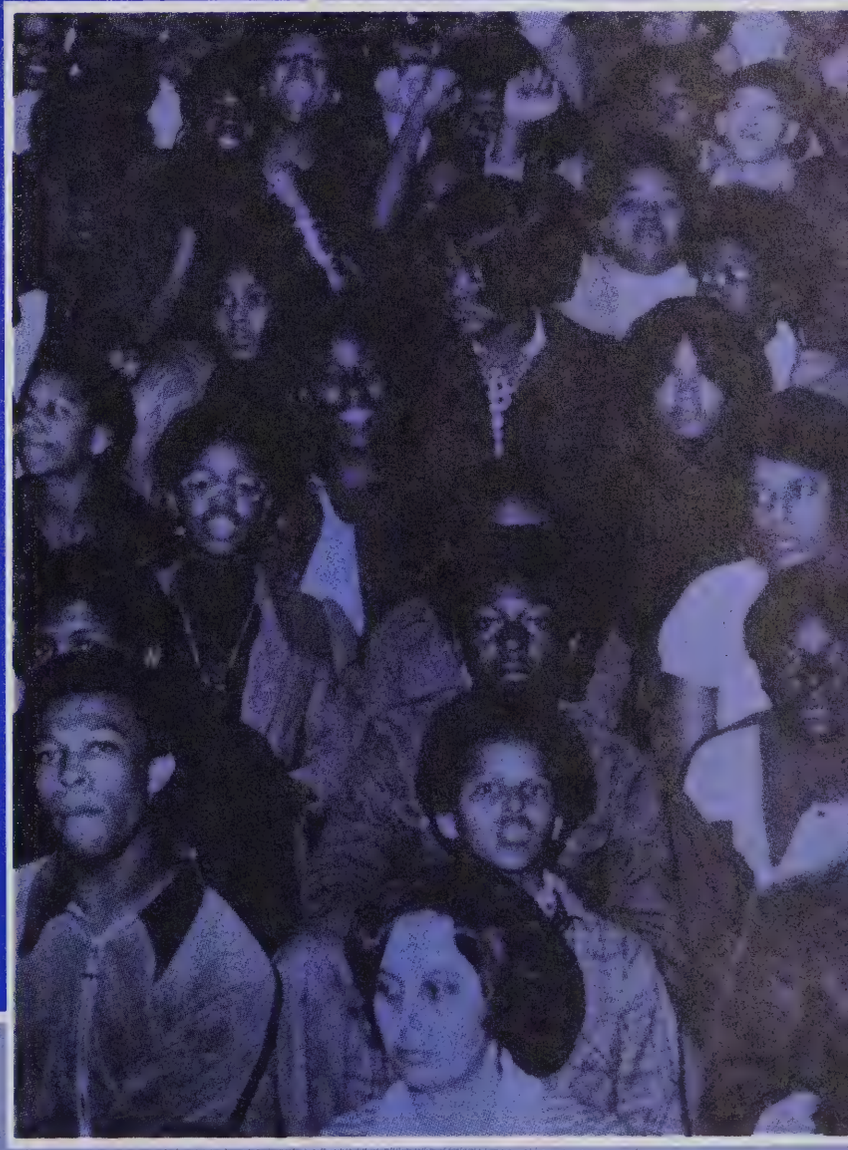
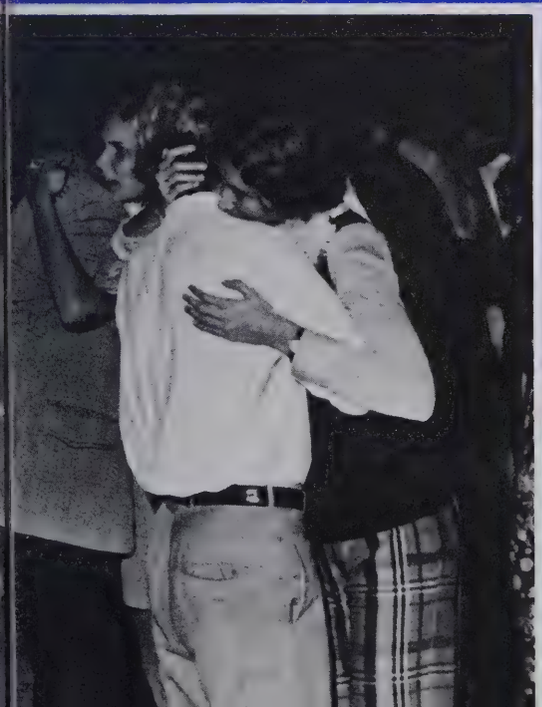
The excitement and fun of the summer is soon substituted for either apathy or enthusiasm. Many people find that taking part in _____ can make even the months of school enjoyable. Top and above: Central's clubs joined with the community to make a successful swimathon, raising needed money to keep the city pool operating.

Center: The pains of pre-season football practices are felt by many but appreciated by all. Far Right: School spirit knows no shape or color. Bottom: Put your arms around me honey, hold me tight . . . enough said.







A tear,
a smile,
a victory, and well-planned
Brother Rabbit activities.
Add these together,
with the usual amount of apathy,
and you get Central's
Homecoming '72.

Participation's the name of the game and,
This year people
played more than usual.

Serious Contemplation

People you never would expect . . . accepted.
Surprised, happy faces and, of course, surprised, unhappy faces could be picked out of the student body for the entire two weeks before the BIG Event. Once at the dance, however, the fascination of how utterly idiotic people could look took over. Li' Abner and Daisy Mae made their usual appearance, but this year there was an added attraction . . . the classic barrel!

wkins

OPPOSITE TOP: Conversation wasn't exactly a major pastime at the dance, but Johnny Foushee manages to say a few words to April Gunter. OPPOSITE BOTTOM: Sherlocke played for us and were OK as far as a Sadie Hawkins Dance band goes. (not too far) LEFT: Jane Roberts and Tony Mills pose as farmer and wife. They pretty much look the part except that not many farmers have a shag . . . ABOVE: A couple of Central students and a couple more friends sit and sip . . . coke. BELOW: Due to extreme humidity, heat, and smell, a couple RED OF NECK refugees sit outside to cool off.

Our Talented Wonders

In both the Talent Show and the Jr. Miss Pageant, an abundant amount of talent showed up. Whether in the form of shapely lovelies with brains to boot, or in not so shapely bodies with a little lacking upstairs, the individual talent inevitably became the main attraction. Who could forget the togetherness of the Jr. Miss contestants in their routine together, or the soulful talent contestant who gave so much to the singing that no accompaniment was needed? True artists . . .

The Marching Band Refused to Yield!

Cary Band Day once again proved to be a show of the marchingest bands in the east. The drawback in the entertainment area was that not many of them could play worth a plug nickel. All, save the Central band, of course. We blasted the judge box out for forte and made them lean forward and cock their ear for pianissimo. Impressive, huh? Although we didn't place, our band was already looking for other challenges, for just around the corner was Disneyworld!

Left: In preparation for Cary Mr. Braunhart helps (?) 106 students through many hot and heavy practice sessions. (emphasis on hot). Below Left and Below: Once at Cary, the band performes like a well-oiled machine (on blisters) in the parade and on the field.

Not To Mention Christmas Dance

Despite Apathetic Big Wheels,

Who cares?

"We do!" says the group of students participating in Central's first intramural program. Although fingers were jammed in basketball, veins were burst in volleyball, throats were slammed with balls in ping pong, rackets were broken in tennis, eyes were filled with sand in golf and wrists were twisted in bowling, students began to learn the name of the game: involvement.

Above: What's you name, at that rate? Below: A rare sight of players learn the best way of keeping score. "I still don't know what a point is."

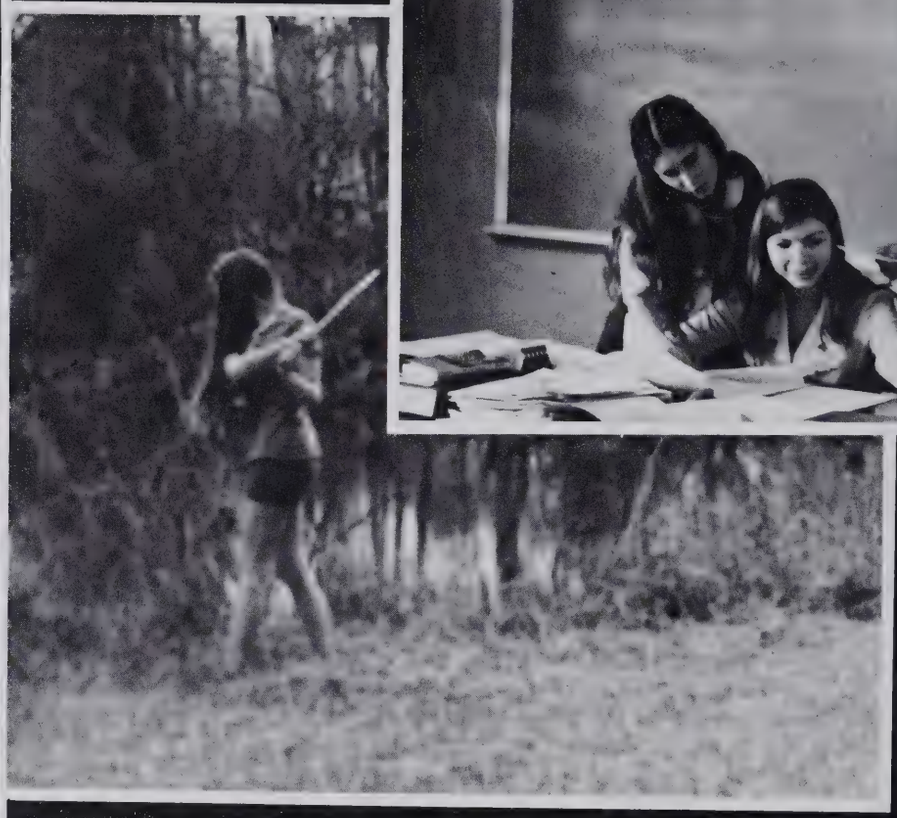
. . . To Give Every Student A Chance To

The work of Central's organizations continued throughout the year, despite a growing trend of indifferences on the part of many students. The leaders of service clubs faced the ageold problem of organizing worthwhile projects while their members would support. They managed to find conditions at Central and in the community which needed improving and set to work.

The clubs organized to promote a specific interest faced a more complex situation. These clubs attracted students who desired an opportunity to cultivate their own interests but who often rejected service to the school through menial tasks. Those clubs unable to initiate programs for club meetings often attempted token school service projects and met with little response. The most enthusiastically supported clubs were the ones that primarily devoted themselves to using the common bonds of the members to fulfill the club's purpose.

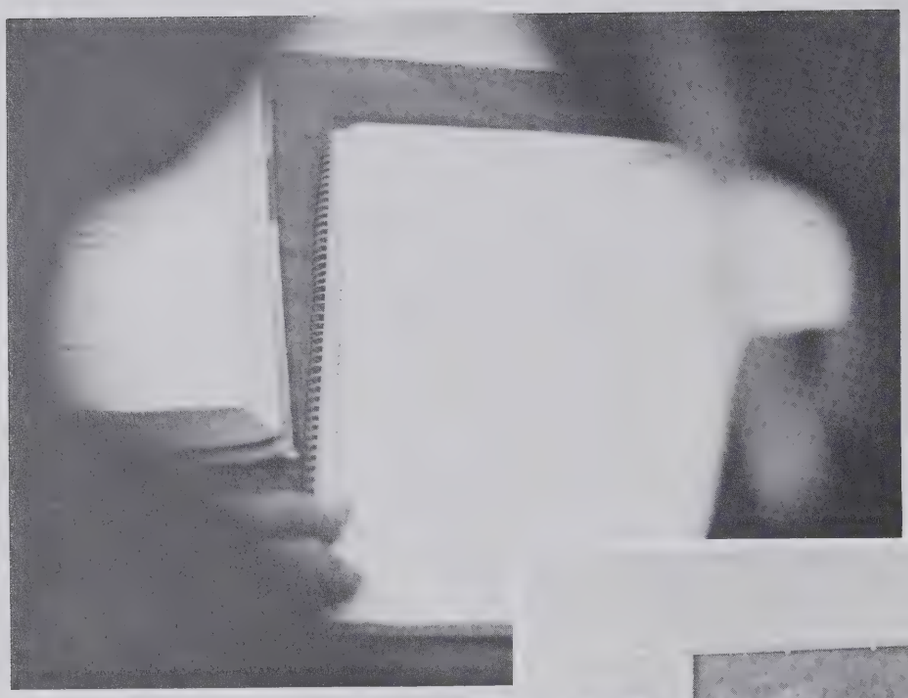
Students were beginning to see the possibilities at Central for developing a wider variety of activities. But somewhere in the rolls of red tape, the actual development of certain cultural activities did not take place. The ultimate goal of the school's extra-curricular program, to give every student a chance to develop his own individual interest, was perhaps seen by a few but was not reached.



Develop His Own Individual Interests

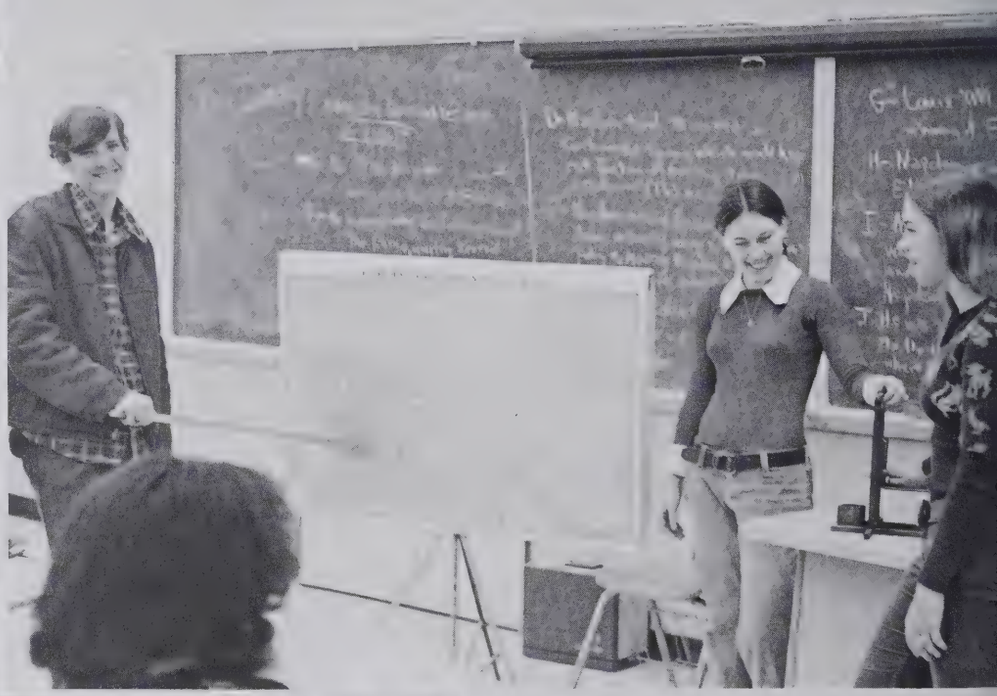
Far Upper Left: Marcia Prestwood, President of the Students for Environmental Action, sees the Biology Pond as a victim for ecological improvement. Upper Left: Fosteen Skipper works on the organization of a literary staff to encourage creative writing and to publish the best student works. Above: The National Honor Society offered its tutoring services to other students for the first time this year. Nancy Brickhouse volunteers some of her time. Upper Right: Members of the Sophomore Tri-Hi-Y count money to help the community UNICEF drive. Far Left and Left: Cleaning the gym bathroom and polishing the trophies win the Civinettes recognition through the Principal's Cup for Service. Helen Krick organized various club activities throughout the year. Right: From the back of the middle section of the auditorium, David Riddle and James McKinnon watch the bimonthly proceedings of the Student Council. Despite the sponsoring of several student activities, Student Council leaders were disturbed by the lack of initiative on the part of the representatives in setting up Council projects.

WE GO TO CLASS TOO!



The Mathematics Department at Central boasts a great variety of course offerings. Students choose their math courses to meet their specific needs.

Imagine the monotony and boredom if everyone in the entire world was just alike. The world is people. For centuries the origins and lives of people have captivated individuals. Students at Central now have the opportunity to learn Social Studies through mini-courses. By this process, students study in areas where their specific interests lie.



Above: One feels a sense of personal satisfaction and achievement after having completed a challenging math problem. Center: Students learn history in various ways. Here Benny Pollock points out France on the map while Ann Bailey McLean and Lori Lawrence perform before the class. Left: Bible class offers students the chance to study the Bible as history.

AT LEAST SOME OF US DO . . .

Language; expressions in words. The Language Department encompasses many phases of learning ranging from the construction of simple sentences in a foreign language to the discovery of the meaning of a literary work. Students learn to convey their thoughts not only through writing but also through sppech. Studying waht others have expressed in words and learning to express oneself in words are the basis for language study.

Above: In order to remain aware of classroom procedure, Assistant Superintendent, J. L. Seaman returned to Central for a week as the teacher of Mrs. Vale's classes. Here, Mr. Seaman discusses with students topics for a paper. Center: Debbie Rackley and Patty Vernon study Spanish with the use of recorded lessons. Right: Participating in Poetry Appreciation Week, Central welcomed Ms. Julia Fields as its visiting poet in residence. Although Ms. Fields caused much controversy during her visit, most people will agree that she was a catylist for deep thought.

. . . And They Cook, Too!?

A cake falls, so what? The aroma of burnt roast beef drifts into the atmosphere so strongly that it knocks the Sanford bird population out of the sky. Central's students become immune to such torture. Afterall, if we did get sick we could always recover in the gorgeous, cozy, little home ec. bedroom. Aren't they well-equipped? They should be, the rest of the curriculum is lacking because of it. (All, save Vocational).

As The Spinning Wheels Spun, and The Typewriters Typed . . .

Central's business department this year, as usual, consisted of the familiar hum of typewriters, the moans and groans of confused shorthand students, and the whirl of new, industrial machines.

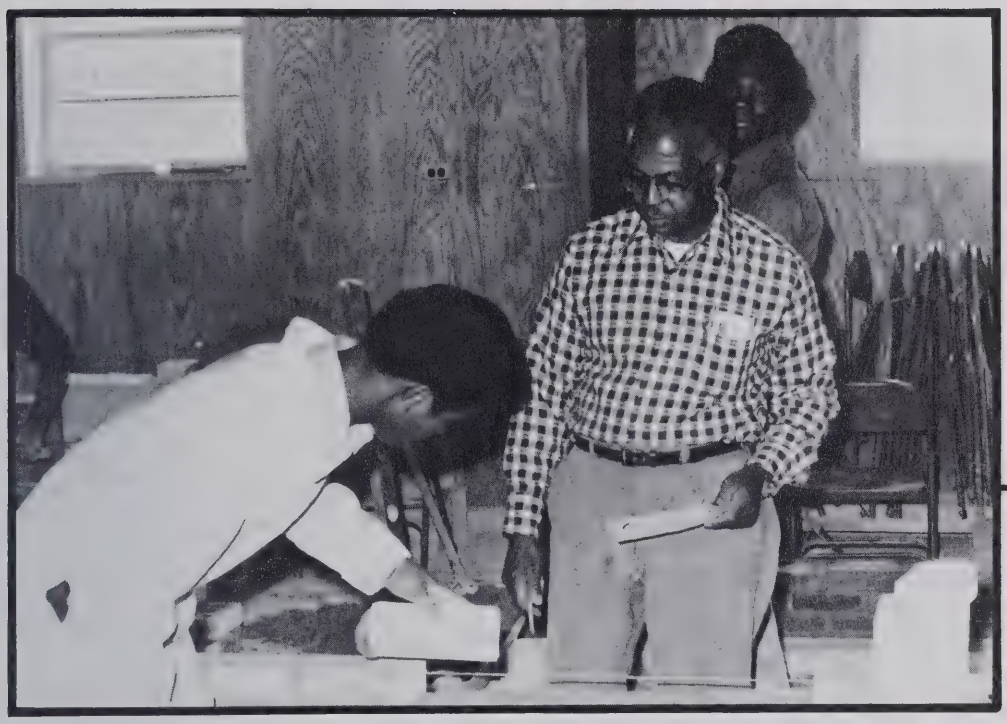
Central's Pride and Joy,

The Vocational Department has been the subject of much discussion during its growth in the past few years. Although some educators see this type of learning as a movement toward relevancy, others fear that its direction may replace the three R's rather than being an addition to them. At Central, the facilities and variety within the vocational curriculum make it an experiment with nationwide importance, but for students here the program simply offers the opportunity to obtain training for basic occupational skills and to learn the ropes of business and industry through work on the job and in the classroom.

Right: . . . . and I thought drafting was for the Army! Bottom: Tense? Who says I'm tense?

The Vocational Department



Left: No, the string is NOT used to hold up the wall. Bottom Left: If at first you don't succeed . . . . Bottom Right: A new project for the Key Club?

P.E. (Freshman Only)

The Physical Education Department at Sanford Central offers students the opportunity to express themselves through physical endeavors. However, at the present time participation is limited to freshmen except for a small group of upperclassmen who take Advanced P.E. In the spring, the Student Council passed a bill requesting the establishment of a four year physical education program at Central. Perhaps this will be done. Students taking P.E. not only participate in Physical activities, but also learn health care and personal hygiene.

Students Top Faculty

The annual Student-Faculty basketball game allows students the opportunity to match playing ability, instead of wits with faculty members. This year, students were successful in defeating the faculty in both the men's and the women's games.

The Sciences . . . You Know, Biology,

The Sadie Hawkins dance was, of course, the Science club/class's familiar contribution to the school this year, but surprisingly enough, the year 72-73 was also honored with an extra, gracious gift. A skeleton! A real, live (pun) skeleton! The lectures, films, labs and incessant tests most certainly cannot be left out of the curriculum. They are an almost too important part in the school day. Seems like school would be ok without them, but then again without them there wouldn't be school . . . actually. THAT isn't such a bad idea, either . . .

Above top: Some of our adv. biology students persue (and begin to consume?) some of their bones. Above bottom: Chemistry labs can really be a blast, right Skipper? Left above: Some poor goat's eye is the victim of an overly-eager biology student! Seems to be givin' ya the hairy eyeball, huh.

Chemistry, Physics, Etc., Etc . . .

Above: Physics class is always a very hard class, but there is absolutely NO giving or receiving information, because students always like to say they did it themselves. Below: Everyone consistently lingers after class to ask their brilliant questions after being so inspired by the exhilerating lectures.

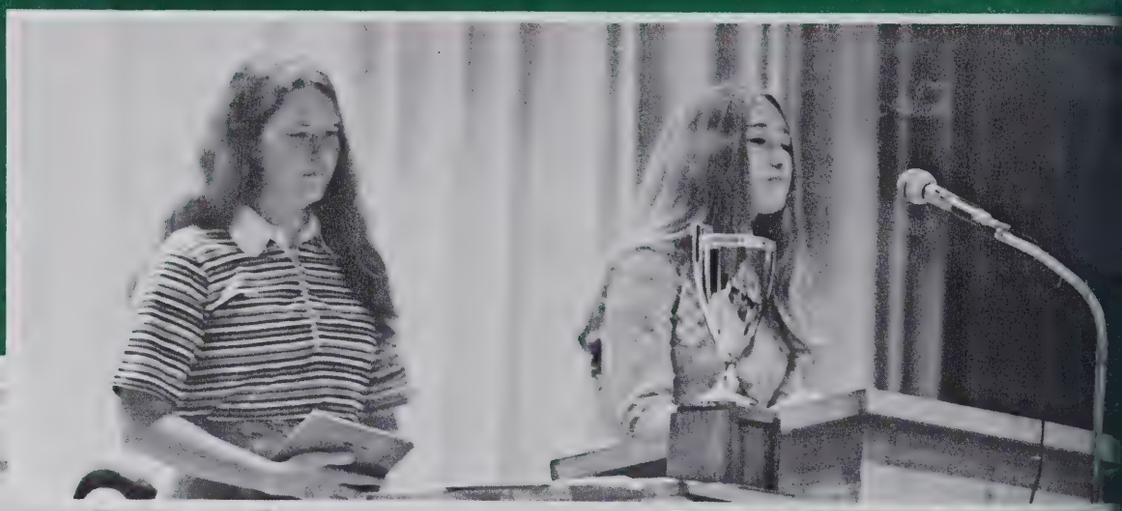
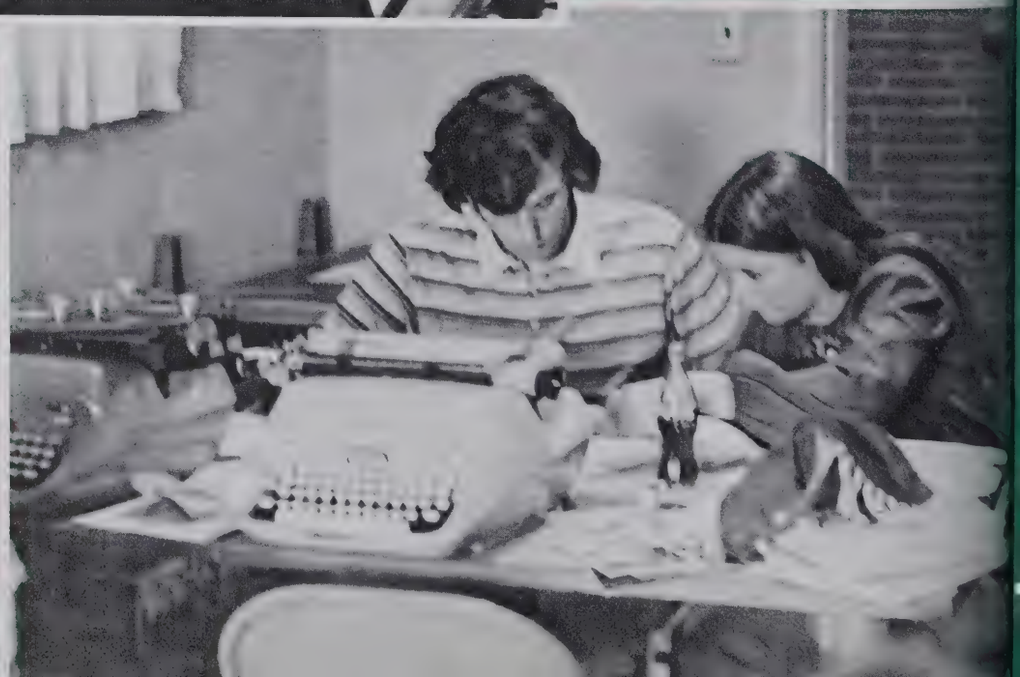
The Annual Story

Once upon a time, there was a group of partially insane people. Since they were in the above mentioned condition, they became known as the annual staff, and with a name like that, they proceeded to put out an annual. The question inevitably came up, "What is an an-nu-al?" It was decided to be a book consisting of roughly 800 pictures, 9600 words of copy and 200 layouts, each with approximately 82,000 lines. Fun, huh? Well, being the conscientious group they were, they took on the challenge. (Mistake, mistake) During the course of the year, familiar chants could be heard coming from ye olde annual room. "¢#$¢:$." "Meet the deadline tomorrow at noon or you shall die." "Good news, pal, the photographer didn't show up." "Carter is what. . . leaving?" Yes, dearly beloved, this group's advisor, Samuel Carter was leaving. Deep in the valley of despair, it looked as if all was lost . . .



And then . . .

Beware of these people, they are the characters in this story. Top: Our rocks of Gibraltar, the co-editors-in-chief, Nancy Brickhouse and Karen Rhyne. Middle: Carter, our long, lost advisor, Cathy Gantt, our maybe more than partially insane Student Life editor, David Riddle, our money-hog business manager, Donna Strickland, our Portrait editor, who can draw layouts that can almost walk and talk, and Donna Thomas (not pictured) our opening editor, who can write Shakespearean copy. Bottom: Sandra Miller and David Riddle put together a monstrous spread (monstrous in the sense of big, illustrious, etc. Opposite Middle: Cathy Gantt fights the straight jacket as she tries to put together several billion pages. Opposite Bottom: Perry Lou Patterson, our Athletics co-editor in one of her better moments, Donna Utley, our other Athletics co-editor in what seems to be a bad moment (Cheer up, Utley.), Terry Hobart, our little Yankee athletics helper, a scoreboard of infinite information, and here comes Jane Roberts with more pictures of Tony.



Another advisor stepped into our story. Who was this woman of wonder, this creature of courage? None other than Mrs. Wagoner. (left) Our group, once again, got a grip on itself, as much of a grip as the partially insane can get, and slowly but surely made their way up the yellow yearbook road. Yes, folks, pencil in hand and cropper on shoulder, these children of incredible creativity and intelligence made the last deadline! The book was finished. Since we assume it will reflect the brilliance of its creators we shall also assume . . .

THE END

Fine Arts Department Puts On Good Show After Good Show After

The 1972-73 edition of this year's Choral Department featured the many beautifully harmonized voices in an array of performances and musical enterprises.

Featured in this year's repertoire were three performances of Handel's Messiah given during the holiday season, an excellent spring concert played to a capacity audience in the auditorium, and a hilarious version of Lil' Abner performed two evenings in May. The girls ensemble, adding their touch of feminine dignity to the musical endeavors, made this year a red letter one in the Choral Department's History!

Above and right: Laughter was everywhere, on stage and off, during the spring concert which featured everything from foot-stomping, square dancing to bicycling hot-rodders. Below: Stand up, 1st person, 3rd row, and SING!

The band did a great job as usual this year. Mr. Earl Braunhart put this fine group of musicians in parades, concerts, and as a grand finale in Disney World! As an extra undertaking, the band sold records of themselves (Stage Band). It may sound conceited, but they raised enough money to foot the bill to Florida! There were new assets to the band in 72-73. They came by the names of one Mike Hopkins and one Wally Dixon. (Student directors) Due to these and many, many, many other factors, the band had an exceptionally enjoyable year . . . agreed? agreed.

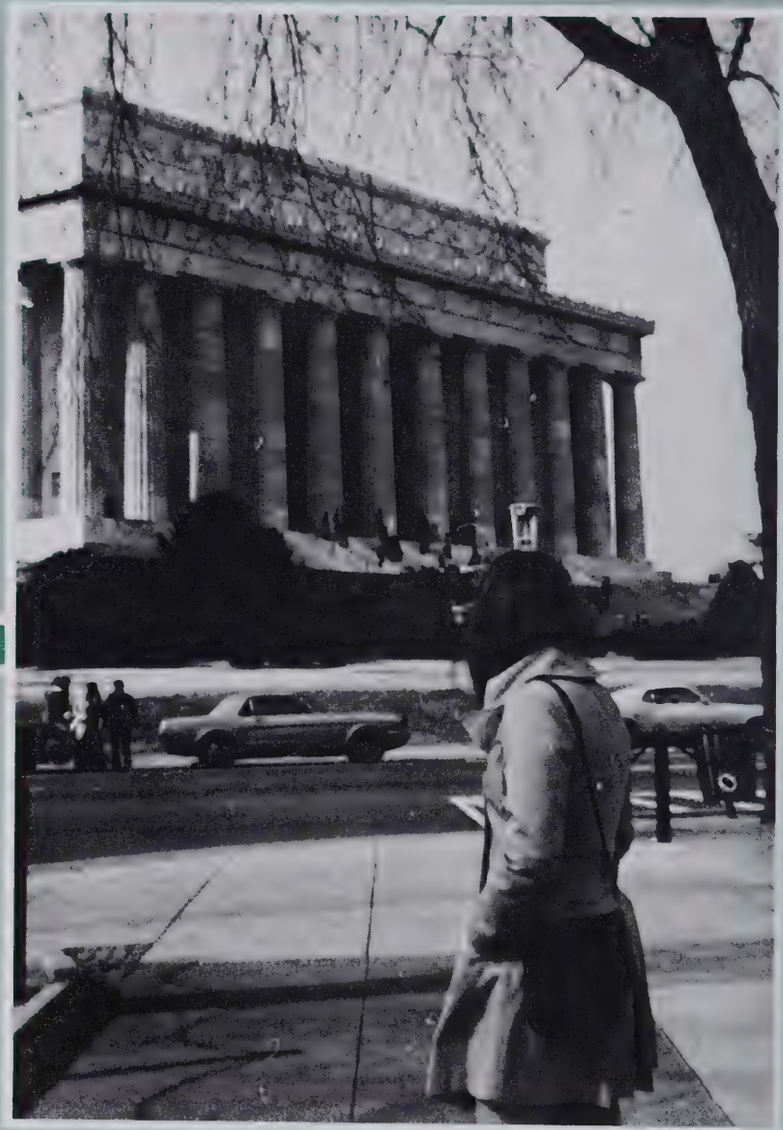
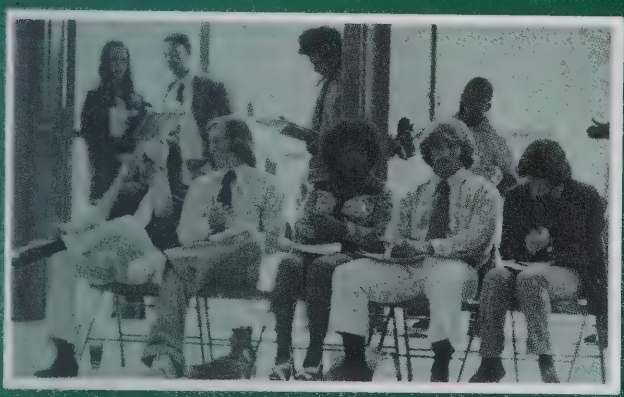
The Advanced Government students' trips to Washington and the Band's trip to Disney World have undoubtedly been the most talked-up adventures taken on by the students this year. Two very chosen students left weekly to attend the Presidential Classroom in Washington for a wild seven days. Those who went came back with enlightening experiences from the weeks endeavors, (not necessarily dealing with Presidential matters, of course).

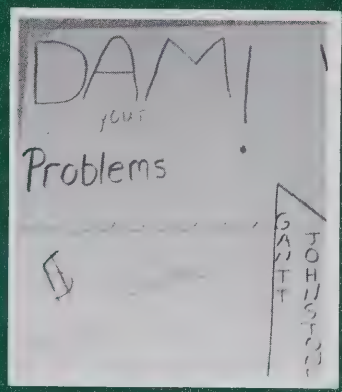
As for the band's trip, it got rained out a little, but what could be more fun than being inside a room with rain pouring down while in Florida. A lot of things, huh? Believe it or not, there are actually almost 150 people walking around today that would pledge it was fantastic. When the sun did shine, it did shine. Burnt bodies everywhere. The band did its usual superb show and everybody was happy. Right? Right?

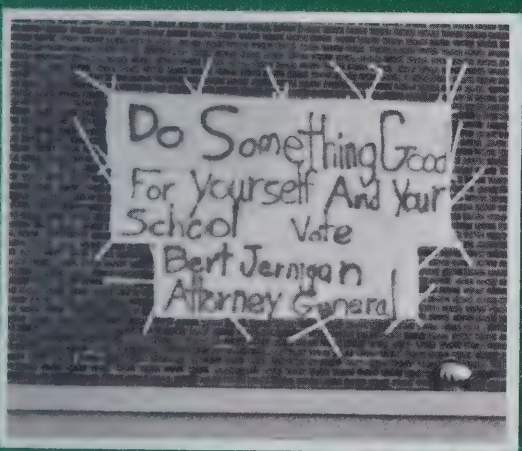
Right: Washington D.C. intrigues many people. Nancy Brickhouse is no exception (in that Washington intrigued her). Below: You can't go to Disney World! The band played a sterling concert right in front of Disney World castle (where orange bird lives Wally).

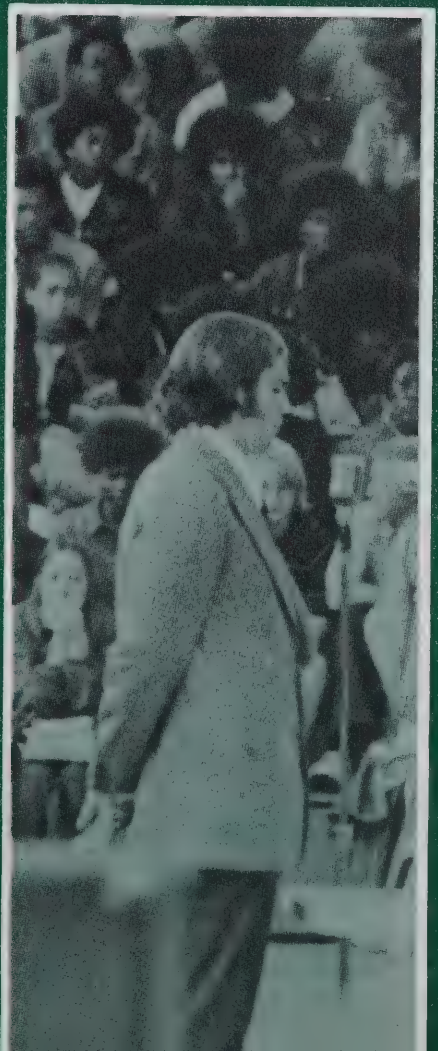


One-Sided Elections Create Moderate Enthusiasm









Central had its share of student participation in elections this year. Everyone simply voted for one ticket. There were two rather strong tickets, with one obviously stronger than the other. Posters were in abundance as was the amount of mud-slinging, but all in all everything was even-steven.

Left: The independent running didn't do too well but Mary Hawley Bullock certainly had the effort. Our new Attorney General is Sarah McBryde after stiff competition from Burt Jernigan. Left Center Left: The losing ticket, Monty Austin, Shelia Bethune, David Overton, David Hattaway. Left Center Right: Interesting poster, huh? Left Middle: Another interesting poster? Far Left Bottom: The winning ticket; Sandy Wicker, Treasurer; Alison Bost, Secretary; Skipper Johnston, Vice President; and David Gantt, President. Left Bottom: The new President, David Gantt

Disney World Comes to Life at Jr.-Sr. Prom!

The Jr.-Sr. Prom this year consisted of over 300 happy Minnies and Mickys, a fantastic band, Sherlocke, and, of course one happy Mrs. Yarborough. The change from jeans to tux and gowns was so overwhelming that one surely would not have recognized the Sanford Central Student Body. As the night progressed the fantasy World of Disney gave way to the fantasies of beachparties, good times and friends.

Work Yields Achievement . . .

Both time and people must pass but one secures immortality by successfully attaining goals of the highest echelon. High school students, although limited to goals relative to existing possibilities, can excel and be recognized through various endeavors. Whether these endeavors be in academics, fine arts, vocational education, or sports, one definitely obtains a sense of personal satisfaction through hard earned achievement.

Achievement Constitutes Recognition

Above: Awards Day was particularly exciting for those people who were recognized. Student Council officers were installed with David Gantt as President. Danny Bost was chosen as the most outstanding R.O.T.C. cadet. John Daly and Helen Krick received the Principal's Cup for the most outstanding service clubs, the Key Club and the Junior Civinette Club. Right: Bill Griffin: National Merit Commendation Award. The Beginning Graduation . . .

To where,
"I'm out!" . . . of what?
All possible,
All too fast . . . or too slow?

Over 350 students graduated from Sanford Central High School in 1973. They now have in their brains 12 years worth of acquired knowledge.

In other words, knowledge worth
2,060 days or 16,480 hours or 988,800 minutes
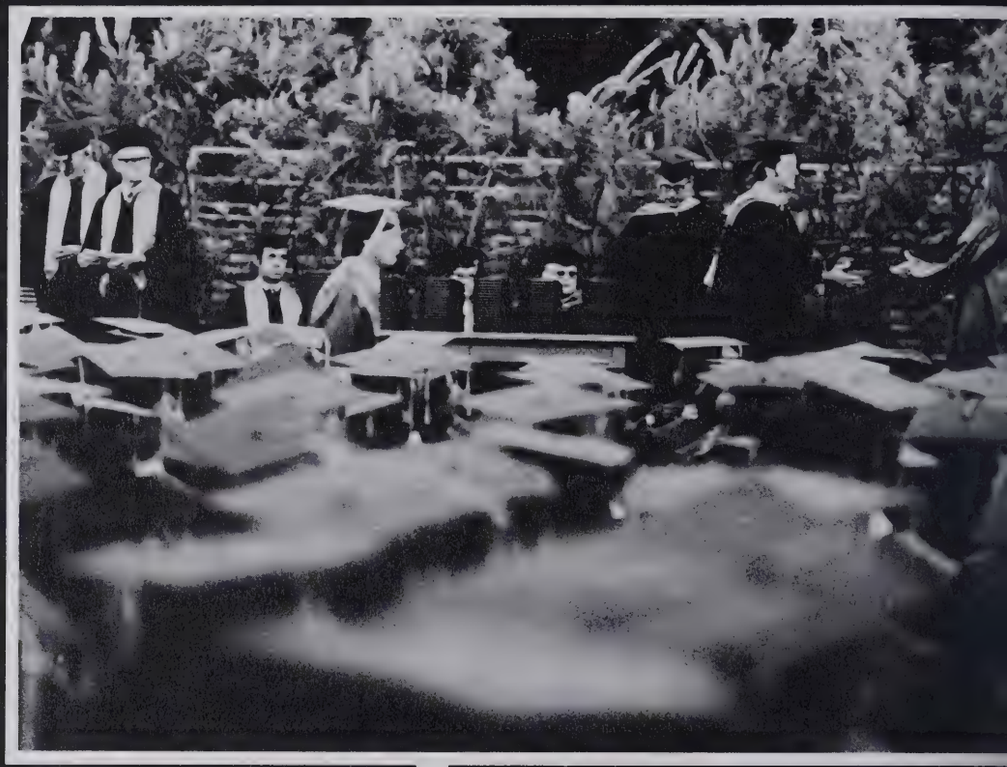
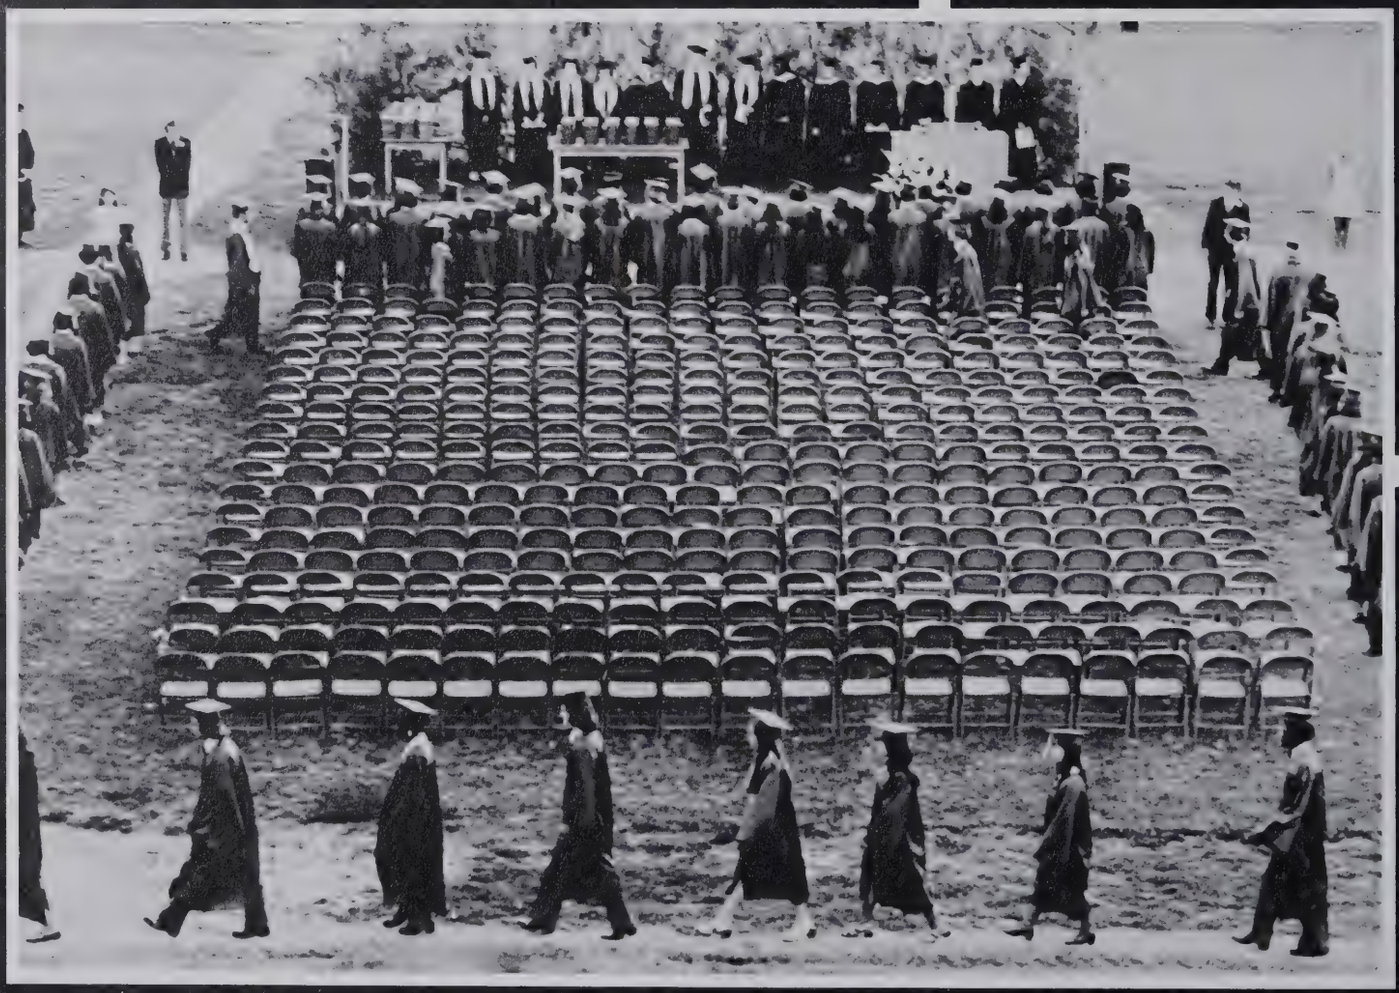
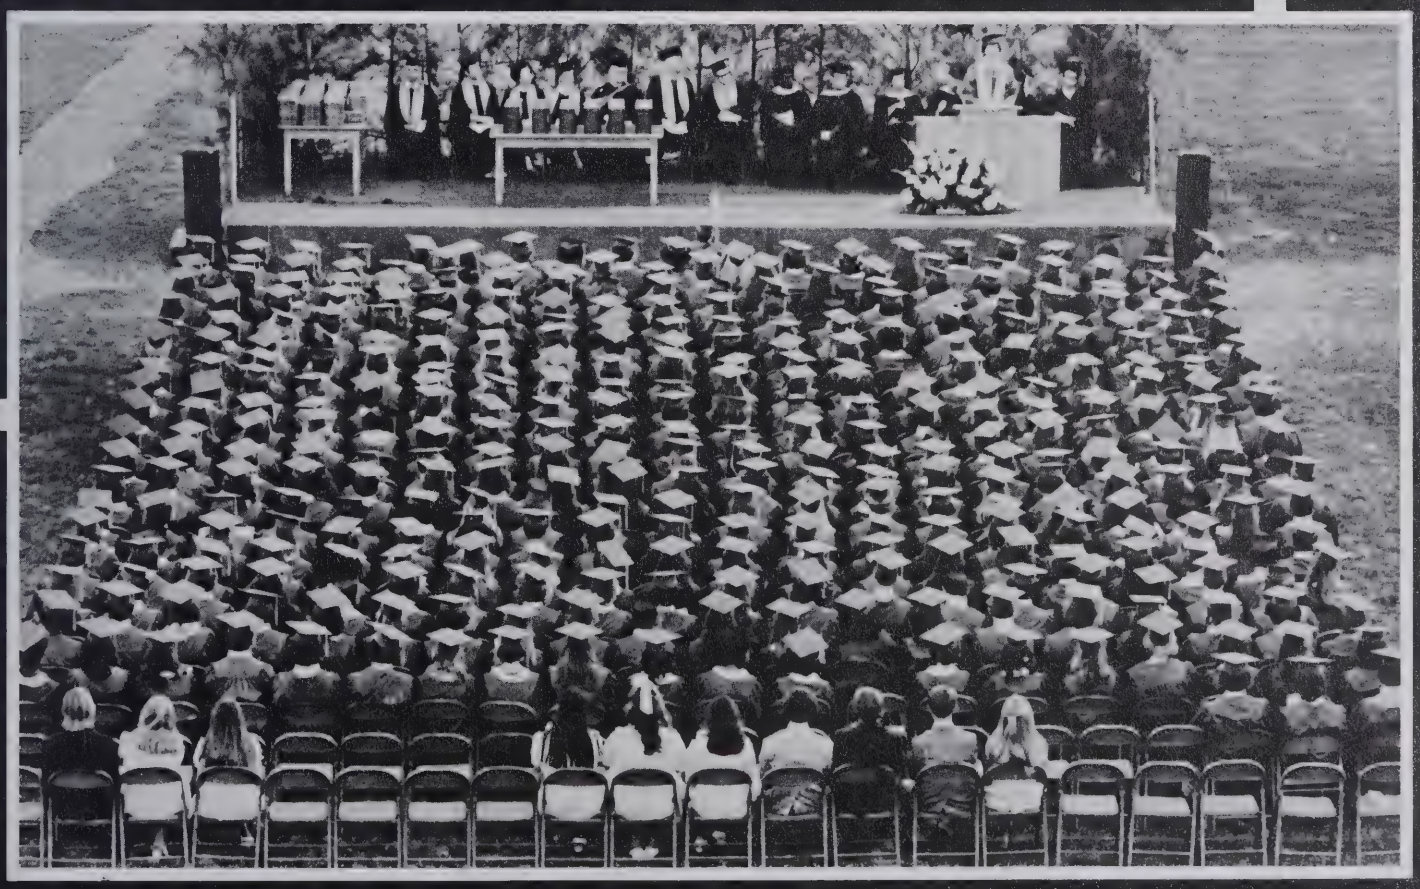
or 59,328,000 seconds.

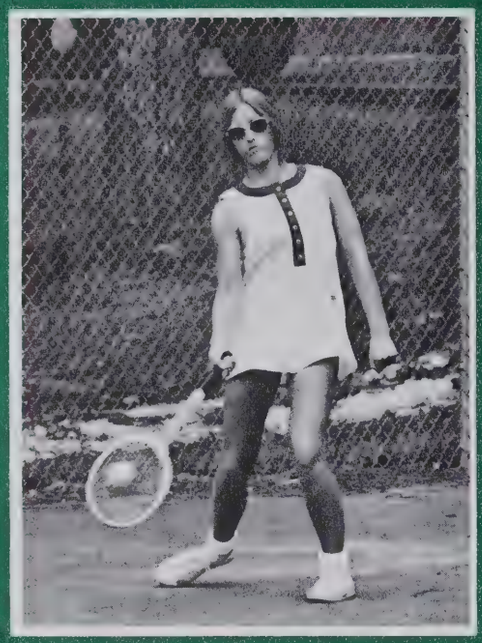
What could the world expect except the very best?

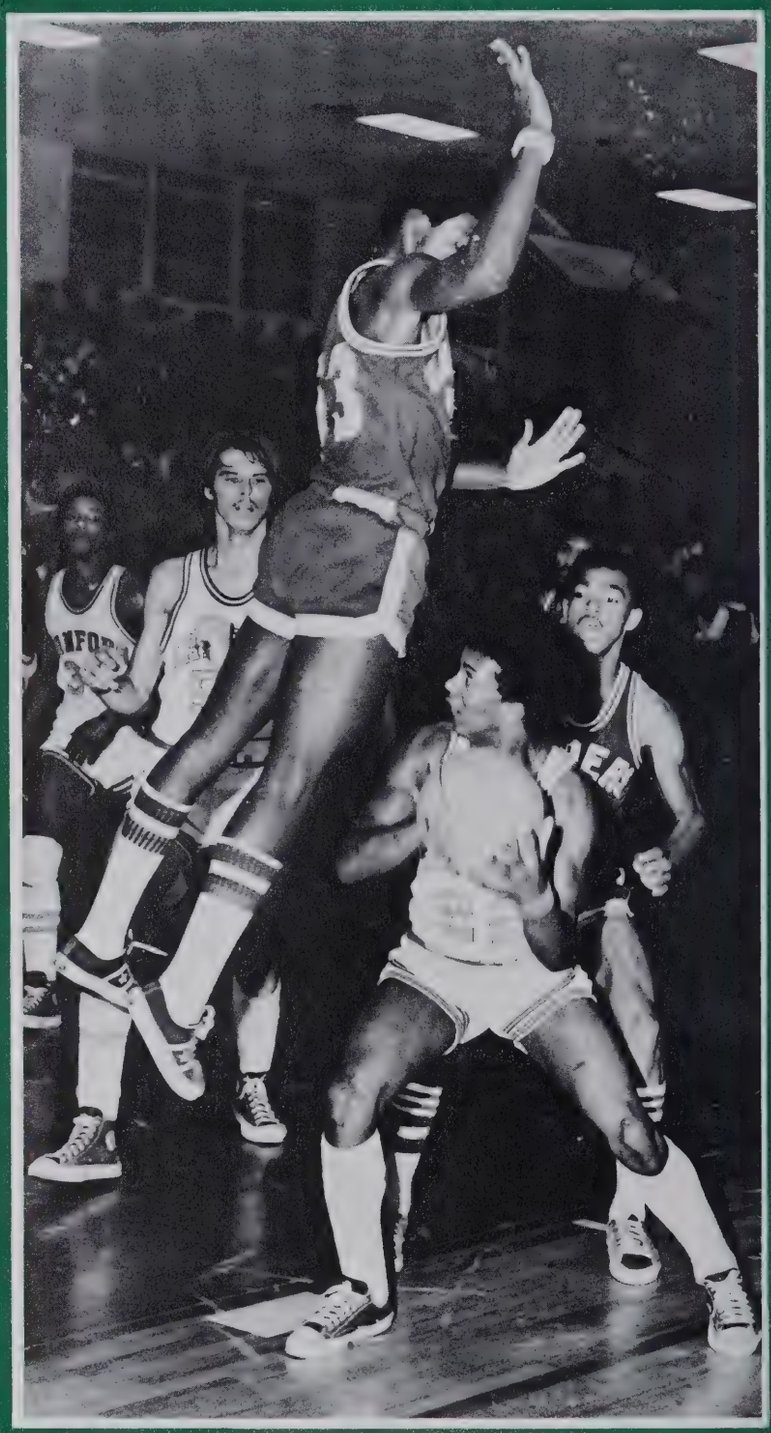




Our future's very best (Marshals): Pete Langevin, Mary Hawley Bullock, Elizabeth Graves, Scarlett Russ, Mary Knipple, Arletta Harrington, Tommy Siler, Sid Foushee, Philip Blue, Meredith Mackey, Chief.







Our bodies are the expressions of our spirit, our energy—not in themselves, their size, their color, their proportions but in the way we use them. To run desperately, to aim and throw a perfect pass, to go beyond the point of physical exhaustion and then continue to sweat and toil, aware only of strength and power and breathing for the essential air. Teamwork and sportsmanship? The expression of the mind which is present through the body's struggle.

Teamwork Proves To Be Effective

Sanford Central had an outstanding junior varsity team this year. They posted an overall record of 7-2, their only losses being to Asheboro and Greenwood. Teamwork was the key to success for the J.V. Jackets, along with outstanding play from Monty Austin, Greg Robinson and Jim Atkinson. The J.V.'s gave the varsity much to look forward to.

Jacket's March to the Mountains

The 1972-1973 edition of the Sanford Yellow Yackets showed us all exactly what they are — NUMBER 1. With an 11-2-1 season the jackets brought to Sanford the title of "State Champions" which they share with the Tuscola Mountaineers. Sanford's signal-caller, Charlie Spivey was backed up by outstanding play from both offensive and defensive units. Sandy Wicker, Alan Cameron, Chip Post, Robert West, Tony Mills, Bobby Sloan, Robert Hinson, and Junior Such proved outstanding players in giving 100% of themselves. The Jackets were coached by Paul Gay. Assistant coaches were Robbie Clark and Charles Alexander. Holding down the job as managers were Gary Zajac, head manager, David Phipps, Ken "Ace" Cameron and Brooks Pomeranz.

Hard Work For A New Beginning

Some of the most athletic girls at Central took on the initiative to try their hand at something that hasn't been around for a long time. Central now has a very active (and cute) girls' basketball team. Although the scores aren't too impressive, this team has laid the foundation for a winning team. We all owe these girls our thanks and appreciation. Team members are left to right, kneeling, Holly Chester, Phyllis McDavid, Karen Key, Shirley King, Fran Bridges, Sheila Castleberry, Pam Bain, and Christie McNeill. Standing are trainer Perry Lou Patterson, Jackie Ogburn, Sandra Brooks, Jeannie Lynch, Gracen Durham, Coach Roger Morris, Emily Bass, Elaine Adams, Wanda Oldham, and trainer Pam Cole.

Wrestlers, Another Winning Team

The wrestling team this year represented Sanford in a most outstanding way. Sanford took in all victories but one, and it was a major upset to Pinecrest. Central is very proud of the wrestling team for winning the SECTIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP. In working for this goal, the Jackets struggled through many hardships, such as not eating to achieve a weight loss and working out after school. Some even went to the extreme of getting their hair cut just to lose a few ounces.

Sanford Central Varsity Team closed their season with a very impressive 14-3 record.

At one of the trying moments of the season, Del Phillips, David Vick and others look on to a disappointing loss. Although the boys felt as if they had let down Central actually Central's students felt a great pride in our conference champions. The annual staff would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Coach Oldham and his "men" for a fine successful season.

And The Girls Keep On Trucking

With a record of 1-4, Women's Lib got off to a slow start this year, in the form of Central's new girls' track team. Nevertheless, Mr. Morris stirred his team enough to capture their first victory and in doing so, gave a hopeful beginning to a very hopeful team. What's next? Maybe — a full girls' athletics program?

Disappointment Plagues Track Team

The Track team was young this year but was very enthusiastic. The guys showed promising skill for the future. Among the returning underclassmen is Tony Mills who went the state track meet held at East Carolina University. The outstanding Seniors on the track team who did an excellent job for the season were: Dennis Adams, David Bryan, Steve Lanning, Steve Harrington, Pat Johnson, Terry Adcock, and Chuck Llyod who won the Kiwanis Track meet award.

8-1 Prove To Be Magic Numbers For Girls' Tennis Team

"I feel that we will have to be considered one of the top teams in the state," were the words of Coach Roger Morris as he reflected back over the '72-'73 season of the Girls Tennis Team. Not only did they win all their regular season matches, except one loss to Chapel Hill, but most ended with the identical score of 8-1. All the girls played their full strength and in some matches a few of the girls played a higher position than they usually did. Undoubtedly, this was the best team ever.

Progressing Young Team Places 3rd In Conference

A change of season from spring to fall, worked as an advantage for the Girls Golf Team this year. Coach Peggy Golden came forward with a young team, three freshmen and four sophomores, who played hard and landed a 3rd place in the Conference Championship and 5th in the State Tournament. The team as a whole had a fine season and should progress more and more in the following years. The team members include: Karen Huffstettler, Susan Spivey, Carolyn Overton, Susan Mann, Debbie Peele, Karen Key, and Martha Wilkie.

Sanford Places 2nd In South Eastern Conference for Tennis

The Varsity Tennis Team placed 2nd in the South Eastern Conference after losing 21-19 to Lumberton and had an overall record of 11-4 for the season. The State Sectionals, which was held in Chapel Hill May 3-5, placed Sanford 5th out of 29 teams, with 5 sophomores and 1 junior participating. The All-Conference players for the year in the number 3 singles was Don Belsma; in the number 2 doubles were Chuck Hart and Harry Price; and in the number 3 doubles were Don Belsma and Jay Ford. The All-Tournament player and Most Improved was Harry Price and the team chose Johnny Foushee as the Most Valuable player for the season. Other team members who did an outstanding job were Bill Griffin, David Hattaway, Doug Groome, Jeff Beach, and Paul Brickhouse. The coach for the season was Charles Alexander.

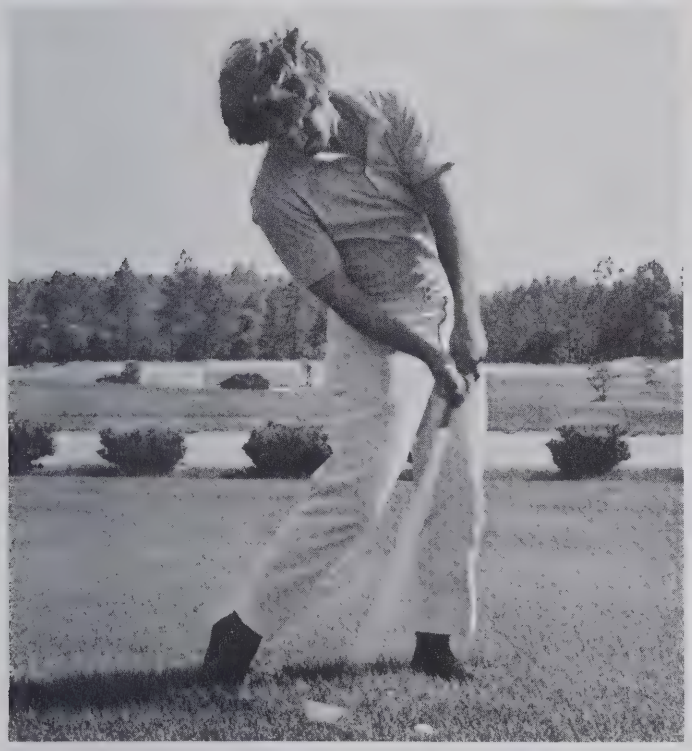
50 Shots Paces Central's Golf Team to Win the Conference



The Sanford Central High Golf Team won the Conference Championship in record fashion this year by a 50 shot lead over the nearest team. The team also won the Sectionals for the first time. The top four, Jon Hockaday, Chris Dalrymple, David Overton, and Jay Isenhour, led the team on to victory after victory and Coach Paul Gay looks forward to a bright season next year. The Jay Overton Trophy was awarded to Chris Dalrymple at the Athletic Banquet for being the Most Valuable player for the season.

The cheerleaders have played an important part in cheering this year's teams to their victories. While the students attended the games, the cheerleaders put forth an excellent effort in stirring up school enthusiasm. Many hours of hard practice resulted in their final productions. Imagine wearing the same uniform twice a week!

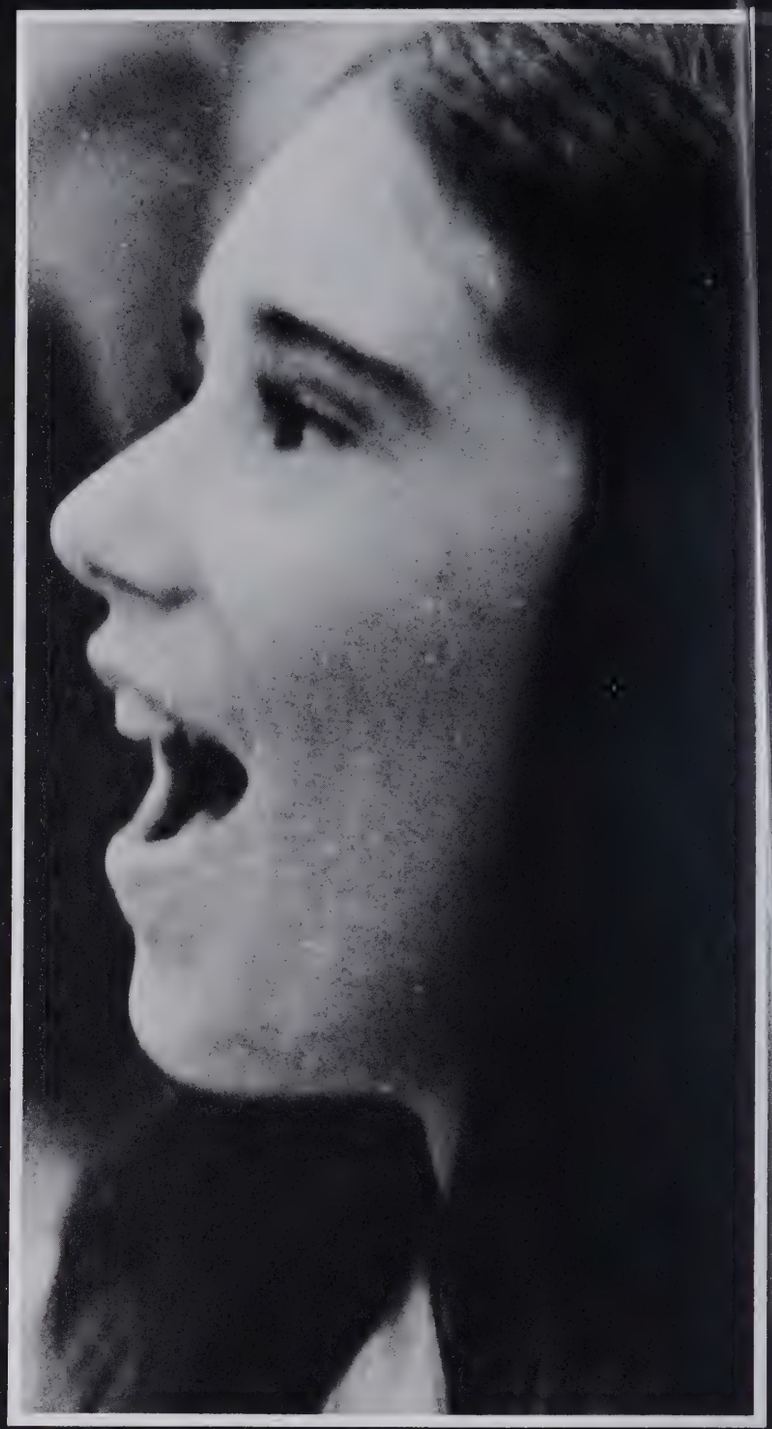
Cheerleaders Endeavor To Rally Support For Triumphant Teams



What do our posed pictures really show about ourselves? Why do we carefully wash our hair and put on make-up or wear a coat and tie? Is it because we want to express ourselves as we want to be or as we want others to see us? Or are we trying to convince ourselves that that's how we are? Does the expression we give the camera reflect our best or our worst or something not at all connected with what we are? Is our portrait in the annual just one more brightly smiling face among the mug shots and our body in the group shots just one more presence there to prove that it belongs? Do we see ourselves as just one more of the 1700-plus in the student body? Or do we recognize our own uniqueness?

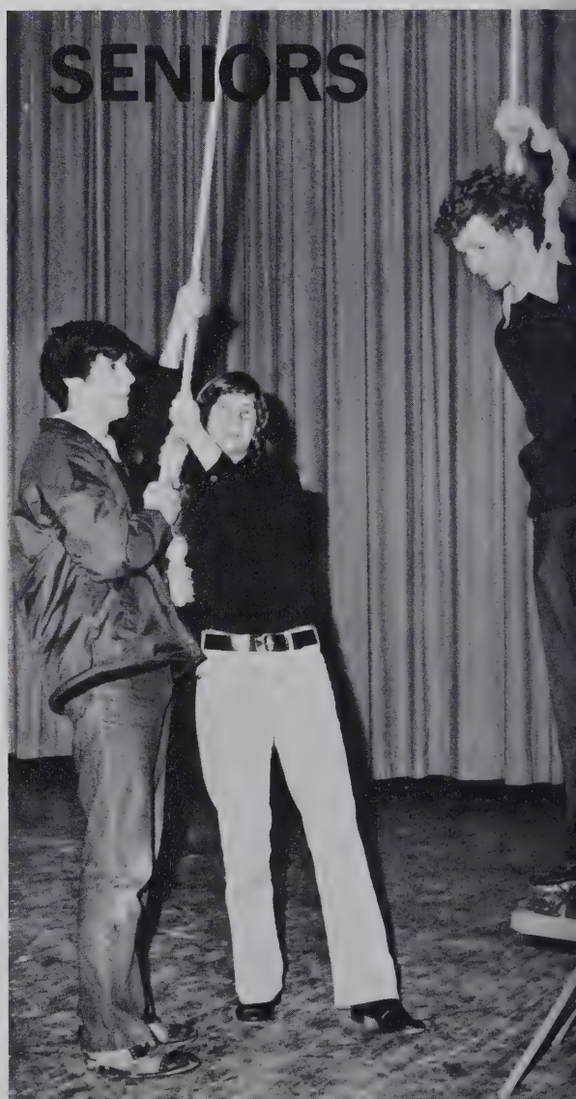
SENIORS



It took eleven long years of work(?) to get here, but now that we're seniors we feel it was all worthwhile. We realize now that We are the leaders in our school.

With the help of Mrs. Vale and our senior committee, we were able to raise enough money for our gift to Central. The student body at large helped make our Christmas dance and Civitan-Key Club basketball game a success.

So the year ends and the Class of '73 leaves Central, but takes with it memories that will never be forgotten.

TRUTH

People long for the truth
what is honest and real?
So many people join the game of deceiving each other hiding behind artificial masks making themselves something they're not playing roles for all to see.
"Genuine" people deluding each other with false promises and imitations of sincerity.
Always to continue the vicious cycle of "being themselves and true to others."

The Junior Class was led by President David Gantt. Aiding David with the responsibilities were Vice-President Ken Cameron, Treasurer Ricky Hamel, and Secretary Gayemell Campbell. With the beginning of the year, the class diligently set to work on the annual sale of magazines. The remainder of the year was spent in preparation for their grand finale — The Junior-Senior Prom.

Entering their second year of high school, the sophomores looked with some enthusiasm toward no longer being the youngest students. The first class effort of the year was to sell magazines to increase the class treasury. They did a surprisingly good job of raising money, considering that this year was the first that magazine sales were open to all underclassmen. As the year progressed, some sophomores began to become active in clubs and other extra-curricular activities. Others began to look longingly toward the day that they could leave as graduates. But regardless of their attitudes, the sophomores all began to realize the position of influence their class would soon be holding.

Although the freshman class outnumbers any other class at Sanford Central, they carry little weight in influencing any major decisions. The administrative duties at Sanford Central are immense. Mr. Seagraves, Mr. Howard, and Mr. Oldham, however, perform their jobs quite adequately, yet still find time for students' personal needs and desires.

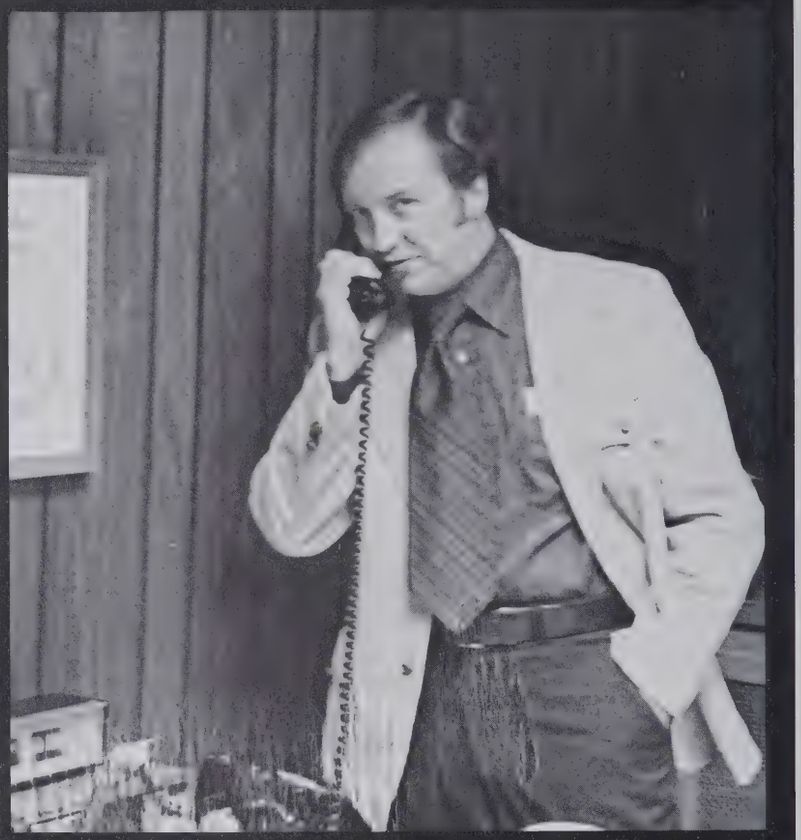
Above: Assistant Principal, John Howard stops a moment to analyze a situation in the midst of a busy day's schedule. Right: Principal, George Seagraves discusses business matter over the telephone. Below: Assistant Principal, Carson Oldham, observes the beginning of another school day filled with new problems, new pleasures, and new experiences.



The duties of the city school administrators and the school board are varied and took on a slightly different look this year. The Superintendent, Mr. Brinson, along with a school board member, Dr. Covington, joined many other educators from our country and took a trip to Russia to observe the educational system. They saw new ways of teaching and brought back many ideas to better our school systems. Mr. Seaman, Assistant Superintendent, took on the extra duty of teaching Mrs. Vale's English classes for one week. During this time, he not only got an inside view of the school and its problems but also got a chance to brush up on his English.

The school, as part of the Sanford community, cannot completely separate itself from the world of business and industry. Money becomes an important factor in most phases of school life—from the English Department to the senior class picnic. Time and again, the community is asked to buy from, sell to at discount prices, and donate to various school functions, all of which spend valuable time asking for money here and there. The complexity of the economic situation leaves us all with a variety of feelings from which come our expressions: friendly bickering over the high prices; a gift of money given perhaps cheerfully or begrudgingly, but with the ever-more present realization of a loss in profits; a gift received with perhaps gratitude or disappointment but with a growing sense of guilt over begging for the sake of education with nothing to give in return except the promise of a new generation.

Far Top Left: The Christmas parade included many of Central's students. It was supported by the businesses of Sanford. Far Bottom Left: Fire brings destruction to a well-known business here but the Sanford Fire Department quickly rushes to keep the fire from spreading to other places. Left Middle: In order to meet Sanford's expanding needs, roads have to be widened and improved. Left: The hospital serves a vital function of our community. Below: Much fun and excitement were brought to the community with Lee County's Fair.
